It was as if people could hear the grids whispering, telling every corner of the city, every story.

The civil mirror guides the future

A modern interior space, likely a lounge or office area, featuring a large, patterned carpet in shades of grey and green. The room is furnished with white, minimalist tables and chairs. Large windows on the right side offer a view of a cityscape and a body of water, with a palm tree visible in the foreground. The ceiling is made of light-colored wood slats, and the walls are also finished with wood paneling. A long, low white bench is visible on the left side of the room.

These latticed urban buildings are like a collection of poems to be continued. They are waiting for everyone who loves life, to explore, to understand, to write their own chapters. In this land of innate possibilities, every building is a dream, and every lattice is a path to the future.

Grenaille-100#

Our design is not only the pursuit of beauty, but also the practice of environmental protection. Our goal is to create beautiful and sustainable products that provide consumers with a comfortable space environment while contributing to the sustainable development of the planet.

In the design of Grenaille carpet series, we integrate the human yearning for a better life and the exploration of harmonious coexistence. The pattern design of the carpet draws from the contours of the skyscrapers of the CBD, weaving the vitality, openness and inclusiveness of the city into the ber, allowing the integration of diereent cultures and backgrounds to bloom under the foot.

Grenaille-200#

Carpet is not only a decoration of space, but also a profound understanding of modern civilization. Through unique geometric patterns and textural effects, the Grenaille collection expresses the aesthetics of urban architecture and conveys a vision of the future world.

Grenaille-501#

KINor pay more attention to environmental protection, the use of energy-saving production technology and technology to reduce energy consumption and emissions of pollutants. At the same time, the recyclability and degradability of the carpet will be an important design consideration, so that after the end of the life of the carpet can be effectively recycled and processed, reducing the impact on the environment.

Grenaille-500#

The pattern of the carpet is often not only decorative, but also contains rich meaning and symbol. Carpet patterns vary from region to region and culture, and they may represent beliefs, history, lifestyles, and even human emotions.

Integration and innovation

In this maze of steel and dreams, the architecture uses the grid as a pen to outline an incomparable three-dimensional poem. They are not only piles of bricks, but also the keys of time, each gently playing its own melody.
