Beyond the regular lines and rational order, we introduce another dimension to the space - a breathing glass-like light layer.

It is like the life rhythm of the space itself, making every pause and lingering feel like a silent conversation with a gentle soul.

In the intervals of long hours spent staring at the screen, please bestow your gaze upon this gentle, warm glow. It is like a tamed ray of sunset, quietly lying beneath your feet, catching your falling fatigue with its soft halo and gently cradling those inspiration seeds that are still in mid-air and yet to take shape, allowing them to land safely.

-Light
100#-101#-102#

When you pause to reflect, the halo emanating from the glass light resonates with your tranquil frequency. It remains silent, yet offers company; It does not dazzle, yet illuminates the small space beneath your feet. In this carefully woven tapestry of light, you and the space reach a tacit understanding and empathy that transcends words.

When Riguang quietly spreads its glow on the ground,
the space begins to murmur a poem of light.
With every slight step you take, it becomes a comma or a rhyme in the lines of this poem, allowing the ordinary office routine to immerse itself in the glowing and gentle artistic scene.

Lines are not merely patterns; they are the breathing rhythm of space, as if one could hear the gentle melody produced by the piano keys.

The uneven lines resemble the paths in the forest, conveying the interwoven texture of nature and modernity throughout the space.

-Light
300#-301#

We capture the purest light, allowing it to undergo a long contemplation through the prism, eventually blending into that tender moment beneath your feet. This is not merely a carpet; it is also a solidified halo of light, bearing the weight of thoughts, gently lifting each and every moment of creation.

-Light
400#-401#

When the Liuguang carpet gently supports your steps, you slip from the rigid world into a realm of your own starry sky.

With each step, a circle of light-radiating ripples spreads out, touching the originally stationary light and allowing thoughts to oat and expand like clouds.

The circular carpet delineates the core area for both work and relaxation, and the smooth arcs echo the curved design of the space, making the overall layout seamless and harmonious. With the circular carpet as a visual anchor, it softens the hard lines of the open space, and the delicate texture combined with the rounded contours create an elegant visual hierarchy for the modern lounge area.
